

Encirclement of Agricultural Area Around Lake Okeechobee Assuring Access To All Lands Aims Of C & S Flood Commission

Development In 1130 Square Mile Area Bursting Seams In Demands For Facilities

Pythian Knights Organize Here Saturday Evening

Half Section Land Owner Assured Of Use Of Over-all Controls

Horse sense and the dirt farmer's practical needs dominated actions of Central & South Florida Flood Control Commission's actions Saturday when two fundamental and copy plans of action were adopted.

The Commissioners officially adopted the objective of securing immediately the agreement of Congress to permit the encirclement of the designated "Agricultural Area" around Lake Okeechobee, east and southern shores by the construction of dikes L-2 to L-6, inclusive to join the southern extremes of L-1 and L-7 which are now under construction.

Water control—drainage and irrigation—for areas as low as half section ownership, as envisioned in 1912 to '17 is made practical thru action of the Board in adopting a plan for secondary channels and their connections with the major flood control system.

The original approved plan, as well as the authorized work called for L-17 leaving the Hillsboro at the southern line of presently developed land and skirting the northern boundary of the Hillsboro Ranch across the North New River to the Miami Canal and northward in the Miami Canal to the Bolles, then west to join with Henry County. This dike would have served as a perimeter dike until dikes L-2 to L-6, inclusive were built.

Now, development within the area north of this line has been active and developments completed, under way and planned of this intensity the need for early completion of the perimeter dike.

In regarding this situation the C&S District shows that the cost of L-17, if built after the perimeter dike, will cost so much more than if built before the above facts, makes it logical to urge the temporary postponement of L-17 in favor of the re-ministry of the perimeter dike.

During a visit in December, several members of the House Public Works Committee were won over to the area to judge for themselves the urgency of the new order of construction. With the US Engineers joining the C&S District, the necessary legislation is made easier.

L-5 and L-6 will form the northern boundaries of Broward and Dade and the Broward Conservation pools also and hasten their effectiveness.

The long-range plan for a secondary system of flood control will ultimately bring to every section the facilities of the over-all flood control works — it is C&S.

New Heads For Parking Meters Being Studied

Parking meters in Belle Glade worry the City Fathers almost as much as the motorists. Last week the question of whether or not the city will spend another $3,600 to install new heads on the existing meters was referred by the Commission, which met with only three members present: Mayor W. L. Colson, and Commissioners Harold Rabin and Walter Ashley.

Demonstrating a new "fool-proof" meter head guaranteed not to jam, a representative of M. H. Rhodes, Inc., Gainesville, told the commissioners that cost of rehabilitating each old meter would be $18. "Just send us back the old head and $18," he said, "and we'll ship you the new fixture, guaranteed for one year."

In the absence of Police Commissioner Herman Cook, action on the matter was deferred. The city hall owes the company $4,000 on the present meters.

At the same session the commission also Voted Charles Fontaine and (Continued on Page Four)

All of the Past Presidents presented in retrospect the accomplishments during their particular terms, but the lasting and constructive work of Lions for children's eyes was the highlight.

Prof. Hobson reminded the boys that each week, and during the President's term, the school children have eyes examined upon request. The first ones were carried to West Palm Beach by a mobile eye machine operated by a registered nurse is available for preliminary examinations. #### Drunk Charge Sad Mistake

A jail sentence here for drunkenness on Jan. 11 was a bad mistake for 38-year-old Negro James Davis, alias James Smith, because Belle Glade police officer Sgt. Vernon Clark thought he recognized him as a "wanted" man and asked the FBI for a report.

The FBI report which reached Clark last Thursday, said that Davis, who escaped from Raleigh, N. C. State Prison in 1948, had served five years of a 15-year sentence for 2nd degree murder at the time of his escape.

Churches of Christ, Scientist "MIND" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon for all churches of Christ, Scientist next Sunday. Emphasis is placed on the healing of sin and disease and the more expansive outlook resulting from the understanding that God is in Mind.

Selections from "Science and Healing with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy include: "The basis of all health, sinlessness, no immortality is the great fact that the mind is only Mind; and this Mind must be not merely believed, but it must be understood" (p. 339).

Bible references include this correlative citation: "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed on thee because he trusteth in thee" (Isaiah 26:3).

The Golden Text is "Great is our Lord, and of great power: his understanding is infinite" (Psalms 147:5).

Outline for the INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, February 22, 1953 by Robert Ford

LESSON TITLE — "HOW JESUS ANSWERED QUESTIONS" Scripture — Matthew, 22:15-22, 34-40

Introduction: This whole chapter deals with those who tried to ensnare Jesus with questions that would make him either a blasphemer or a traitor.

Aim: 1. To show how Jesus used truth to conquer deceit.

2. To show man's relationship to the state.

3. To show man's relationship to God and neighbor.

Conclusions: 1. (VS 15-22) Jesus teaches the Christians' responsibility to respect law and order. In rendering unto Caesar that which is His is the basis of our heritage of the separation of Church from State. There is a higher authority than the State; that is God, but the Christian is to be under the constituted authority as long as it stays in its own realm and not in the realm of God.

2. (VS 34-40) The Rabbin taught there were 613 Commandments. Thus Jesus was put on the spot when asked which was the most important. Jesus summarizes the 10 Commandments into 2: a. The duty of man toward God. b. The duty of man toward his fellow man.

Here we have the perfect rule for life, as these two Commandments cover all our relationships from birth through eternity.

Seventh Day Adventist Church

Surviving The End Of The World

How can we survive the end of the world? It sounds like an impossible proposition, but it should be quite easy—if we know how. And with world affairs as they are, it may be wise to start learning. It is vital to note that surviving the end of the world involves infinitely more than merely dodging atom bombs! In the catastrophic final events on earth, the actual end will be the doing of God, not man. The Bible declares that in the last day, God will "destroy them which destroy the earth." The end of the world is repeatedly referred to as "The Day of the Lord."

This is one of the most cheering of all the promises of Scripture, that God will finally intervene in the confused affairs of men!

It is not clear that the chaotic circumstances in which we find ourselves are not a part of God's design? Then just as surely as the Bible outlines the rise and fall of nations and depicts the misrule of men made imperfect by sin, so it predicts that one day God will summarily destroy the actual cause of this chaos—sin itself. He will then, according to Bible promises, start a re-created world again and permanently according to Nahum 1-9, on the perfect path from which it has been lured by unholy forces.

If the express purpose of the end of the world is once and for all to root out the cancer of evil and confusion and to clear the way for all that is good, should not surviving the end of the world be a

The purpose of these experiments is to acquaint each boy with the approved practices used in growing desired crops making satisfactory productive yield per acre.

In carrying out these practices, the boys make study of soil composition, crop requirement and the rate in which material and yield can be improved. Each boy also keeps a daily record of his labor and all expense attached to the operation of the project as well as the amount of receipts or sales. An annual summary is made at the close of the year of all projects completed.

makes effective to the Glades Agricultural area that plan.
Some owners are now dumping their excess water on undeveloped neighboring lands and have no access to water for irrigation; many owners of small tracts—section and half section—have no other place to pump water, nor any facility for securing water in dry weather, even if they had a road to get to their lands.
The invitation to road officials to use the dikes of these proposed channels as roads points out a remedy to the access problem of owners.
Rights-of-way have been provided in all state-deeded lands as well as in all deeds from Everglades Drainage, so that this question is not a serious threat.
It was pointed out that no ditches or dikes are to be paid for by the overall plan, but are still the job of the landowner, but access culverts to major canals are assumed to be a part of the overall job.
This overall secondary plan gives the U. S. Engineers data on run-off requirements of the major canals and facilities under flood conditions.
In determining the size of proposed openings into the major channels, culverts, bridges, etc., the one-in-five year 48-hour rainfall of 7.28 inches, according to records of the Everglades Experiment Station, was chosen.
No existing drainage district, or privately owned drainage unit was interfered with in the design of this plan, as in some cases the proposed channels had to be diverted around existing dikes or canals.

AAA Sponsoring Courtesy Campaign

The courtesy of your local law enforcement officer may win him a prize. This week, The Florida Divisions of the American Automobile Association launched a state-wide promotion to encourage courtesy and good will toward the millions of tourists who visit Florida annually.
Designed to promote tourism and to recognize the courteous acts of law enforcement officers, the "welcome visitors" drive has chosen the slogan "Adopt an Affable Attitude."

The AAA is asking civic officials, law enforcement agencies, chambers of commerce, hotel and motel associations, restaurant associations, service stations, hotel, motel and resort employees, businessmen and just plain folks to "put out the welcome mat"—show the visitors real Southern hospitality.
As part of the campaign the Florida Divisions of AAA are conducting a contest to choose the "Most Courteous Law Enforcement Officer." The contest is open to state troopers, sheriffs' deputies, county police, registry, customs and immigration men.
The contest began Feb. 15 and will close March 31. Judges will base their decisions upon votes coming on courteous acts in various sections of the state.
The general public will be asked to comment and vote on the following points: Courtesy, Pleasant Attitude and Accurate Information.
Voting ballots will appear in this newspaper which is cooperating with the AAA public service program. AAA offices will distribute ballots to their members and visitors.
The winners of the contest will receive state-wide recognition as the most outstanding examples of Southern hospitality in Florida and will be presented with AAA citations.
In addition, there will be many prizes, among them: AAA Tours to Havana via Cubana de Aviacion, three day stay at the Hotel National, Gray, emptied several times.

Line Tour of the city. Three day stay at the new International Hotel on Varadero Beach, Cuba. Transportation via Cubana de Aviacion. Passage to Havana on the S. S. Florida of the P & O Steamship Co. stay at National Hotel. Flight to Nassau via Mackey Air Transport, three day stay at Fort Montague Hotel. Weekend at the swank Colony Hotel in Palm Beach. Weekend at the Hotel Bolmar on Miami Beach, cabana included.
All prizes include transportation and accommodations for the winning officers and their wives.
Voting ballots will appear in this newspaper for the six weeks of the contest. Weekly tabulations of the vote will appear and final winners will be published Sunday, April 5.

The Glades Groundhog Says

A man, apparently very much upset, approached the police sergeant at the local station house and reported his wife missing. The sergeant began writing a report.
"What-size is she?" . . . "Oh, about average."
"Color eyes?" . . . "Oh, neutral, I guess."
"Color hair?" . . . "Don't know."

"What kind?" . . . "Pedigreed collie. Stands six hands high, weighs 38 lbs., brownish-grey spot above right eye, right rear leg is solid white, is slightly deaf in left ear, has deep brown collar and answers to the name of Prince!"

FUTURE FARMER WEEK—Gov. Dan McCarty presents Florida Future Farmer president Jackson Brownlee, at Trenton, a proclamation designating February 21-28 as "Florida Future Farmer Week," as State School Supt. Thomas D. Bailey looks on. There are 8,000 FFA members, students of vocational agriculture, in Florida's schools and over 100,000 members in Florida.

Future Farmer Week Proclaimed

Gov. Dan McCarty has designated the week of Feb. 21-28 as Florida Future Farmer Week. This coincides with National FFA Week, to be observed throughout the nation.

In an official proclamation, McCarty urged Florida citizens "to encourage in every way possible the future growth of this splendid organization." He said the Future Farmers perform valuable community services and provide important leadership in developing the state's farm economy.

There are nearly 8,000 FFA boys, organized in 146 chapters in 60 counties in Florida.

President of the Florida Future Farmers is Jackson Brownlee, of Trenton.

Enrolled in vocational agriculture classes in the schools of the state, the FFA boys learn the latest farming practices and technical work on their own farms, and combine classroom instruction with actual work on-the-farm.

Some of the school-farmers operate their own farms. Others share operations with their parents, rent farm land, or work for other farmers in the community. Many work on the chapter-owned farms in the state.

According to a report of State School Supt. Thomas D. Bailey, the Future Farmers earned more than $1,030,862 from farming activities last year. They averaged $130 each and some earned as high as $4,500 last year.

Bailey said the school-farmers tilled some 126,643 acres of land during 1951-52, repaired 2,062 farm machines and 3,435 pieces of farm equipment, and grew 3,938 home gardens. They canned 211,223 quarts of foodstuffs, saved $28,817 in U-

S. Bonds, maintained over 2,897 acres of pine forests, constructed 6,000 miles of firelines, had 65,000 acres in gum farming operations and set out more than 1,500,000 pine trees.

WASHINGTON NEWS LETTER

From

 U.S.S.

WASHINGTON — On Tuesday of last week, I introduced in the Senate a bill which has far reaching implication throughout the State of Florida and which will focus the attention of the Congress upon our State's phenomenal growth.

The States now divided into two districts known as the Northern and Southern Districts.

The Northern District, whose center is Pensacola and which includes all of that north-west area including Alachua County and all of those counties north and west of that county, has a population of approximately 1,200,000.

The Southern District has a population of approximately 1,200,000. I proposed no change in that District. However, the Southern District has a population of approximately 1,200,000.

I refer to the measure which, if enacted, would give Florida three instead of the present two, Federal Judicial Districts.

It is on that point that I will seek this year to reopen the society security study this year, and where the earnings limit was raised last year from $50 to $75, I will seek again to put it at the $100 figure which was in my proposal last year. This is no sense reverses my conviction, as reflected in a bill introduced by the entire Florida delegation, that this limit should be raised. But I am standing realistically.

Knowledge that experts in the field will be most reluctant to go "whole hog."

In committee deliberations, it may conceivably develop that there is a feeling for dropping the "maturity" age under the social security study. It is a "maturity" retirement age. There is considerable weight in the arguments in favor of this change.

It is certain that this whole question is continually undergoing sympathetic study. It is Senator Walter George of Georgia who made it possible for me to get my amendment adopted last year; Senator George is a Democrat, is no longer chairman of the committee which handles this question but he is a man of great prestige as well as great heart, and am sure his assistance will be forthcoming—and invaluable.

"The Liberator of Cuba." I was happy to join in paying tribute to Martin who lived for a long time in Tampa and whose home in Ybor City is slated for preservation as a great civic museum.

WASHINGTON — The postman brought in a letter the other day (one of several hundred, of course) which urged reduction of the age for Social Security benefits from 65 years to 60 years because "we grow old very fast."

It is difficult to dispute this touched statement which speaks many things for which we may aspire in this enlightened age—the right of men and women to grow old gracefully, to have a right to retire in the prime of life's enjoyment, to dignity and security in the twilight years.

It will be recalled that only last year I devoted my major legislative activity to the welfare of our older citizens, and in addition to gaining enactment of a law giving a small increase to retired federal workers, I was able to prevail upon congressional leaders to lift the ceiling upon earnings of Old Age beneficiaries.

It is on that point that I will seek this year to reopen the society security study this year, and where the earnings limit was raised last year from $50 to $75, I will seek again to put it at the $100 figure which was in my proposal last year. Recently I attended the National Editorial Association convention in Miami. At this time of the year the city of fun and sun is enjoying the height of the season. Night clubs are in full flower, eating establishments are jammed.

They had only been in Miami a few days but they had made the most of it and knew more "where to go and what to see" than I did. They asked me if I had ever been to Leonards.

I confessed that I hadn't, so they took me out to the place which is just across the street from the entrance to Tropical Park. They specialize in steaks and, brother, they know their business!

But the thing that impressed me most was a page on their menu entitled "Food For Thought." It was a page on things to think about, and I pass it on to you here because I think it will prove as impressive to you as it did to me.

In 1923 a very important meeting was held at the Edgewater Beach Hotel in Chicago. Attending the meeting were nine of the world's most successful financiers. Those present were:

"The president of the largest independent steel company. The president of the greatest utility company. The president of the largest gas company. The greatest wheat speculator."

The president of the New York Stock Exchange. A member of the President's cabinet. The greatest "bear" in Wall Street.

Head of the world's greatest monopoly. President of the bank of International Settlements.

"Certainly we must admit that here were gathered a group of the world's most successful men. At least men who had learned the secret of making money."

Twenty-five years later, here are: "The president of the largest steel company—Charles Schwab—dies a bankrupt and lived on borrowed money for five years before his death."

"The president of the greatest utility company—Arthur Cotton—died a fugitive from justice and penniless in a foreign land."

"The president of the largest gas company—Howard Hanson—is now insane. The greatest wheat speculator—Arthur Cotton—died abroad insolvent."

"The president of the New York Stock Exchange—Richard Whitney—was recently released from Sing Sing penitentiary."

"The member of the president's cabinet—Albert Fall—was pardoned from prison so he could die at home."

"The head of the greatest monopoly—Ivar Kruger—died a suicide."

"The president of the bank of International Settlements—Leon Fraser—died a suicide."

Leonards admonish us that while these men had learned well the art of making money, called success.

Senator Holland with seven other senators and myself as cosponsors has introduced a Constitutional Amendment to abolish poll tax and we have high hopes of its enactment this year. This measure, which is one of the acceptable portions of the Civil Rights Program, would have been passed several years ago had not the so-called "filibuster" blocked its consideration by their "whole hog or none" demand.

The Senate passed briefly last Thursday to pay tribute to the memory of Jose Martin upon the birth anniversary of this man who is known in history as
